FROM THE PASTOR

In Genesis 28 is the account of Jacob, alone and far from home and facing an unknown future, having a dream of a stairway to heaven. When he woke in the morning, he concluded, “Surely the Lord is in this place and I was not aware of it...Awesome!” At various times in my life and for various reasons, I have asked God to show himself to me. I realize such a request is presumptuous, but God invites us to pray from the heart, so I did.

God was pleased to answer my prayers, but not as I expected. While I was looking for a vision or sign or prophetic experience, God, instead, began to simply open my eyes and heart to see and hear him in places and ways all around me that I hadn’t noticed before. As it says in Isaiah 6, “The earth is filled with his glory”. As I walked I saw his glory and majesty in the sunrises and sunsets, his creative and purposeful mind in the variety of wildflowers, and his Spirit in the faces and lives of his faithful followers. God spoke to me in the rustling of the wheat fields, through the joyous and playful shrieks from the playground, and in the quiet stillness of the night.

God’s appearances were occasional, much like the experience of the disciples after the resurrection when the risen Christ would suddenly appear in their midst or along the way, and then disappear. We live now by faith, looking forward to the promised day when all shall be revealed and we shall see him forever. For now, surely the Lord is in this place, even when we are not aware of it. Awesome!

Pastor Dennis
